The mission of the Conservancy is to conserve and sustain natural lands and waters in Michigan's Tri-County area. This includes using conservation easements to preserve nature areas and their uses such as equestrian activities, farming and recreation while protecting fragile areas from human impact.

Engman and Brook each bring the Conservancy over 20 years of legal experience in the area of real property transactions and quiet title law. Engman will initially sit on the Lands Committee to review property acquisition and encroachment issues on existing Conservancy properties. Brook will initially sit on the Development Committee to work on community and donor outreach.
